a man leave the apartment later, he said.

Louis Dannenberg, a taxicab driver who had a station at Broadway and Ninetysixth street, said that in 1913, before Carey knew Mrs. Toler, he once engaged the taxicab to drive himself and a woman friend through Central Park. The car was stopped by a policeman, who told him Carey and the woman were acting disorderly. Mary Miles, a graduate nurse, who knew the Careys for years, said that in 1910 Mrs. Carey told her that Carey had threatened to shoot her, and that in Three Sisters.
